

Nature First

The Greenprint Forum has a vision for an East Suffolk where Nature's value is recognised, visitors are attracted because of it and everyone actively cares for it.

Join our online Forum to hear about some of the regional and local initiatives to restore and preserve habitats and promote connectivity and how communities can get involved, and share knowledge and inspire others to take grass roots action .

Monday 22 March 2021

14:00-16:00 on Zoom

This event is being organised by the East Suffolk Greenprint Forum as part of our focus on the theme of Nature First during 2021.

Biodiversity and habitats are under threat from human activity and development as well as from climate change.

We will hear from our speakers about local and regional initiatives to help nature, and we also want to hear from you about how you and your community or organisation are taking action to preserve and enhance biodiversity on your doorstep.

We want this event to be an opportunity for our members to share your experiences and knowledge about positive actions we can take that actually help make a difference, inspire one another to replicate good practice, and take the learning back to our homes, our communities and our organisations.
